NEW YORK, May 2.—The World says: Now that the Centennial ball is over, peoole who paid from $10 to $25 apiece to paripate in it and whose fun was represent by the figure "L," are taking out the bal-ance in criticism. The tongues of the ball-goers were blistered with fault-finding yes-On all sides it was ceded that the Centennial ball was the biggest executive failure of the century. People who were most competent to speak were loudest in declaring the ball a monument of incapacity and vulgarity. The scenes in the supper-room can not be described safely in a newspaper. When it is said that the waiters, policemen and messenger boys drank most of the free champagne, the situation at midnight may be imagined. Justices of the Supreme may be imagined. Justices of the Supreme Court, Governors, staff officers, club men, lawyers, poets, millionaires, with beautiful and refined women, crowded blankly along the supper counter and de-manded in vain the attention they were accumstomed to receive. The functionaries around the place showed undisguised con-tempt for the "free lunch fiends." Waiters who did not have to account for unlimited wine, took occasion to neglect guests and treat themselves. The excellent supper was largely wasted. There was no responwas largely wasted. There was no responsibility for anything to anybody. By 12:30 a. m. the supper room had been given over to people whose ideas of enjoyment had been learned in free and easy resorts. Drunken men invaded the ball room, flourishing bubbling bottles of champagne. In the corridors free fights were of constant occurrence. Gamblers, bookmakers and women deaded or made merey or the stigment. dozed or made merry on the staircases. Never once did an accredited officer of the evening interfere to anybody's knowledge. The policemen who were sober were coated waters from the guests. By 1 o'clock most of the respectable element were making frantic and supperless efforts to get away. Even this privilege was denied them. A line extending from the coat rooms for 500 yards and made up of some of the leading citizens of this town, surged for hours against the feeble and in-adequate partitions of the coat room. Gen-

WASHINGTON, May 2.- The Presidential train pulled into the station at 10:45 last night, exactly the hour when it was scheduled to arrive. The journey from New York was a quick and pleasant one. Only two stops were made. The first was at Trenton. The second stop was made at Philadelphia, where the train was delayed

As soon as the train started supper was served in the dining-car Continental and in the President's car. When the rest of the party had been satisfied, the dining-car was given up to the newspaper correspondents. During their dinner several of the members of the party came in from the other cars, and speeches were made by a number of distinguished guests. Secretary Rusk was made to listen to a song detailing the woes of an office seeker, which he seemed to enjoy thoroughly. Secretary Prootor declined to speak, and his hasty exit from the car was made to a chorus of amusing allusions to the "Secretary of Peace." The entire company drank to the health of Secretary Blaine, standing, and Walker Blaine, who had resisted all attempts to persuade him to sing a song, responded in a graceful manner.

Assistant Secretary Bussey established his popularity immediately by announcing that he was the only member of the new administration that had no door-keeper. Private Secretary Halford, who was called a second for the Desident immediately. to respond for the President immediately after said that he had a door-keeper and needed two. Postmaster General Wanamaker said that if he had not gone into the dry goods business he was quite sure he would have been a newspaper man, and he promised the company that the two-cent postage stamps would be colored a vivid red if the Washington correspondents wished it

At all the larger places on the line of the road crowds cheered the train as it went by.

Washington, May 2.—The routine of the White House was resumed to-day. The President entered his office at 10 o'clock, and from that hour up to 1:30 was occupied in listening to appeals of office seekers and others who desire his intercession in their behalf. The crowd was smaller than usual, but was large enough to keep the President engaged all the morning. There appeared to be a disposition on the part of some to allow the President a little time to recuperate from the fatigue incident to his trip to New York, but this consideration was by no means general. The President tooks well and speaks in glowing terms of his pleasant experience during the past three days.

invitation to the American Science Association to Meet Here in '90.

The American Association for the Advance ment of Science is one of the great associations of the country. Its annual meetings bring to-gether a large body of representative scientific men of this country and Canada. The attendince is anywhere from 350 to nearly 1,000, and ance is anywhere from 300 to hearly 1,000, and the sessions last about a week. Naturally, large cities only can properly provide for such a number. There must be good hotels, convenient places for meeting, well equipped printing establishments, and a liberal-minded people. These scientists pay their own bills, but hospitality in the way of sight-seeing, receptions, etc., not only is expected, but is very desirable, a it makes a community acquainted with its distinguished visitors in a social way. It is an indication of an enterprising and wide-swake city io entertain this association, and the broadcast information that goes everywhere concerning its meetings, is an item of advertisement only second to the possession of a famous base ball club. The IndianaAcademy of Sciences had enough pride in their State and their capital city to think it a very desirable thing to invite this association to meet in Indianapolis, and so a committee was appointed to give the invitation. ons last about a week. The time of meeting is the last of August, and the next meeting is at Toronto. At that time this invitation to come to Indianapolis in 1890 will be extended, with every chance in favor of its being accepted. The matter was canvassed at the last annual meeting enough to indicate this. Before this invitation is given, however, this committee must have some assurance from the citizens of Indianapolis to the thing is desirable, and that they will do all in their power to make it a success. A meeting will soon be called in Indianapolis to attend to this very essential thing, and all who favor the invitation should be ready to come together and pledge their support. The committee of the Indiana Academy, of which Prof. John M. Coulter, of Wabash College, is the head, will be present to explain all the details.

cretary Johnson's Northern Indiana Trip-Good Condition of the Michigan City Prison and the Logansport Hospital.

Secretary Johnson, of the State Board of Charities, returned this morning from a trip through Northern Indiana. He visited several public institutions, among them the Michigan City Penitentiary, the Logansport Insane Hospital and several county jails and poor asylums. He expressed himself as measure-ably well pleased with his observations at the penitentiary. It was his first visit.

"I was taken through the prison by the Warden's son," he said, "and then I was given alone. I talked with ten of them, and I think

A special dispatch from Guthrie says that the Surveyors engaged in laying out anew the Guthrie town-site have succeeded in quarters, and Mayor Dyer at once issued an order to all property owners to make their form of the state of the survey of the state of th of the Warden's, for he has recommended changes in the matter of classifying prisoners and the adoption of indeterminate sentences. Those reforms must, I suppose, come through the Legislature."

In speaking of his visit to the Logansport Insane Hospital, of which Dr. J. G. Rogers is Superintendent, Mr. Johnson said: "I can't tell how well pleased I was with the institution. Every step that I took in it was solid satisfaction. In the arrangements of the building and the methods of management it seemed to me to be well near fautless. I don't feel like criticising it, but if there is anything in the method of management that I should like to see changed it would be to place a woman physician in charge of the woman department. I believe that ought to be done, but still it may be that it is too soon to take such a step. Women generally do not like women for physicians, and not until they have learned by experience that they can be doctored as well or better by physicians of their own sex are they willing to trust themselves to the treatment."

"It may be that the contrast had something to do with it," continued Mr. Johnson, "but I think that the worst of all the bad places I have ever seen was the insane department of the Carroll County Poor Asylum. The institution is in bad condition. The women and children are properly separated from the men, but they are kept in a ricketty little shanty, in which they are locked by the Superintendent at night. The windows are nalled down, so that there can be no escape from or entrance to the place. The house is heated by an old-fashioned stove, very insecurely put up. The place is almost certain at some time to catch fire, and some of those women and children, if not all, will be burned to death.

Mr. Haueman.

Mr. Theo. H. Haneman, in a letter from Los Angeles, California, says: "We are not too far from home to get The Indianapolis News. We like to read it and keep posted on the events of our native city and State. Sometimes we see an article from Los Angeles, which is often quite amusing, though not intended for the funny column."

Mr. Haneman says that the mistake of most people who go West is that their expectations are foolishly too high. When they find that life in California is in no way different from that at their old homes, and riches no easier to acquire, they write captiously about the country and often misrepresent the facts. His experience has been that for a man of pluck it is a good country, but it requires just as much industry and push to get along there as here. He is doing well.

Los Angeles now has well paved streets, swept nightly, and thirty-seven miles of cable car lines are down.

Attention thus far has been given to the five miles of Belt Road front from Brightwood southeast. This is the territory most accessible from the gas belt. Liberal responses in many instances have resulted. Next week the canvass inside the city will be made and later all parts of the Belt territory will be delled on. "There is no antagonism between this movement," said Robert Martindale, "and the Trust. This is not an enterprise to supply domestic consumers, as the Trust is. We are friendly to the Trust, and some of the heaviest subscribers to the Trust stock have said that this was a scheme that merited equal support with it. We are already attracting attention from abroad. We can get factories from many States if we can guarantee free gas. Smaller towns offer gas and lands, but large establishments want to locate in a place where there is plenty of labor and where the town is large enough to be everywhere known. Among the concerns in correspondence with us now are factories from Lowell, Mass., and Philadelphia."

Thus speaks "The Indianapolis Market Report," and it proposes to do what it can toward sounding to the world the city's wealth of resource in its splendid shipping facilities, cheap homes, splendid stores and coal and gas fields. For this purpose it discusses at length the condition of trade, and topics of interest to the communcial and industrial world in a new weekly clitton of four pages. MORE delightful spring weather than this that is visiting this region these many days now, rarely falls to the lot of any region. It is true spring weatherbright, cool, bracing, the admirable natural change from winter's cold to summer's heat.

THACKERAY popularized the word "snob," which was then a slang word during a strike, the men who stood out being distinguished as "nobs."

THE supper room at the great centennial ball was a scene of drunkenness. And this is due primarily to the snobbery of the projectors of the affair. In that enormous crowd of people, heated, fatigued and famished, the only thing provided to allay thirst was champagne. Instead of having nature's panacea that condition-water-it was the boast that champagne should flow like water; and apparently it did. The wonder is not that there were tipsy guests both women and men in sufficient numbers to characterize the scene, and tipsy waiters, but that it did not become one general orgy.

It is time, indeed, that we should be guided by wisdom in such matters. The broad roadways of our streets o reduce the expense whenever paving shall be undertaken, and to add to the attractiveness of the street, the comfort of the people and the value of the property that has to pay for the improvements. This thing of setting curbstones, as is being done constantly, so as to make a sixty-foot roadway, is wrong: 35 to 40 feet is ample-more than ample. We urge a careful reading of the communication referred to.

THE President declining to dine with the Spanish Commercial Union in New York said: "Considering the present condition of public business, it would be impossible for me to prolong my stay further." Every one knows what this condition of the public business is. It is simply the importunate gang of office ers who are obstructing the real business of the country, badgering the President, disgracing the country in eves of the world and creating a very serious revulsion of feeling among thinking people as to the wisdom of a party which seems to countenance this organized appetite. President Harrison owes it to himself, to his party and to his country to resolutely deny this hungry horde and leave it to be starved Eloquence is an essential part of a boom, and a tongue cracked by drought is unfavorable to elomate want on that day. In cities where barbers get their Sunday rest hotels have a barber in attandance for late-arrived guests, who goes to rooms on call and shaves there. Thus every real want is answered and the barbers as a class get their day of rest.

THAT delectable gathering which calls itself the Indianapolis Republican Club, resolves that the Republican Council caucus shall make a raid on the police department. Having already degraded the fire department and got it in process of deterioration in serving personal schemes at public expense, the wild appetite thus whetted can't bear to see anything get away, and by a large majority over the protests of the few of sound instincts, order the urgency. One advocate naively tells the whole story: The Democrats, says he, wouldn't hesitate to do it. Ergo, the Republicans must dive as deep, crawl as flat and come up as muddy as anybody else could. Down in Evansville, urges the orator, the Democrats are now making ready to raid the force there (which is not true), and if the same party should succeed here it wouldn't wait twenty-four hours to make the raid. Denmark has a new and unique society. It is called the "Celibacy Assurance Society." its object being to provide for women who can't or won't marry. Premiums begin at the age of thirteen and end at forty. At the latter age an unmarried woman re-ceives an annuity for life. If she marries at any time after taking out a policy, she forfeits all claims on the society. The profits of the society are expected to be arge enough to provide well for members who never marry.

The very interesting discovery of many years ago of Jewish colonies in western China is now well supplemented by the discovery of Christian clans or sects in Africa south of Abyssinia. These wholly isolated peoples have retained some forms of Christian belief and worship since the early cen-turies, when Egypt and the lands of the South were in the hands of the followers of Jesus. Mohammedanism arising in the seventh century cut off this section, and has obliterated Christianity to the north of What is left, however, of the better faith is now so thoroughly degenerate that it is not worth the preserving. The question of abolishing the teaching The question of abolishing the teaching of German in the public schools is again to come up before the Chicago Board of Education. Mr. Sundell, the member of the Board who is fighting to have the study done away with, is quoted as saying: "Whatever the vote may be this time, I shall renew the resolution and keep up the fight as long as I am a member of the Board. German has no business in the Board. German has no business in the public schools, no more business than Bo-hemian, French or Scandinavian. What we want to do is to Americanize the foreigners as fast as we can. The public schools ought not to be used to perpetuate a foreign language and foreign thought."

The industrial outlook is more favorable than for many weeks, and hope is expressed that, after all, the season may be a good one for wage-workers. When the Knights of Labor oranization was first brought into existence t was carefully nourished and cared for by radesunions, and none were more devoted in their attention or more lavish in the ex penditure of money necessary to get the roung labor combination on its feet than the cigarmakers. As long as the destinies of the K. of L. were in the hands of men like Thomas Armstrong, George E. Some Common-Sense Advice on the Subject, with the Figures.

To the Editor of The Indianapolis News To the Editor of The Indianapolis News:

The value of property in a city depends entirely upon number of people who pass the property daily, either in carriages or on foot, and that more people will pass the property if good facilities are afforded for such passage, either by a perfect sidewalk, well shaded for keéping off the heat of the sun, or a well-paved street, shaded as before, for the beauty as well as the shade is apparent.

The cost of making good walks and good streets is as nothing compared with the extra value given the property. To pave the streets streets is as nothing compared with the extra value given the property. To pave the streets properly it is not necessary that the whole space between sidewalks should be covered, but only sufficient to allow the passage of teams conveniently and without danger of colliding. Neither is it necessary that a large portion of the street should be devoted to a portion of the street should be devoted to a gutter, as now constructed in this city, a place for the deposit of all filth carried off by rains from the sidewalks and streets. The street should be laid with its grade such that the water would flow in the direction of the street, and not to the sides, where pools of filth are formed that must be a source of serious annoyance to pedestrians and persons getting into and alighting from vehicles. The surface of the street should be smooth, so as to allow the water to flow rapidly and to secure vehicles from shocks, and thus secure the comfort of the occupents as well as the full power of teams where heavy hauling is necessary. These qualities are secured to a greater extent by the asphalt or sheet pavements, but their cost is a hindrance for many streets of the city, owing to the fact that in our resily driven out Sanford's Radical Cure consists of one bot their cost is a mindrance for many streets of the city, owing to the fact that in our resi-dence portion the property is in large lots, the cost falling heavily on few owners, while on our business streets the cost is divided among larger numbers of owners and is therefore not so onerous. The streets should be such that our business streets the cost is divided among larger numbers of owners and is therefore not so onerous. The streets should be such that they could be readily swept and cleaned. For streets where chiefly light driving is done, such as all of our streets north of Washington street and south of the railroad tracks, a cheap pavement can be made of any of the numerous fire-brick patents, or indeed of a common hard-burned brick, such as is extensively used in the cities of Peoria, Pekin, Bloomington, Champaign and Springfield, in Illinois. Such streets cost about $1.50 per square yard, are easily cleaned, cheaply repaired and very comfortable to occupants of vehicles. These streets are also in use in Pittsburg, Columbus, O.:Wheeling, W. Va., and other cities. That we can not get asphalt is no reason why we should be called upon to endure the nuisance of mud in winter and dust in summer, as our city fathers and many of our old fogy citizens seem to think. In this city of 125,000 people, we can boast of but one first-class street, and that only 330 feet more than a half mile in length.

A few data on the use of streets may be interesting, and they will show the foolishness of building them wider than forty feet at the most in the residence portion of the city. That the amount of travel may be estimated alike in all cities where data are taken, the following standard or method has been used: "Light weight vehicles are estimated to average half a ton each (including loads); medium weight two tons, heavy weight four tons; horses one-half ton. Multiplying the total number of vehicles of each class by these figures and adding together the products, the total vehicle tonnage is obtained, and dividing this by the width between curbs, and the number of days of observation, we get the daily average vehicle tonnage per foot of width. This is the standard or unit of comparison." From observations carefully taken in different cities, the following results were obtained:

any side street in the city, and probably twenty times as much, assuming that it were possible to have a street so narrow. On the basis of travel in London, a side street in Indianapolis would need be but 16 inches wide! Forty feet then would be ample for all business purposes for a travel of ½ larger than the travel on the streets in London, and could accommodate one thousand times the travel of Washington street—on the basis above.

A street 40 feet in width, parties on each side paying one-half cost of improvement, at $1.50 per square yard, would cost $3.33 per lineal foot front; a small matter considering the advantage of the improvement. It is plain that what Indianapolis needs is its streets narrower, by setting the curbs in whenever curbs are set. As it is now, 60 feet are left between curbs. This ought to be reduced to 40 feet—10 feet on a side thrown into grass plots, and on many streets a reduction to 30 feet roadway would be better. This width of roadway could be paved for just half what it costs and on the street and the street are street and the street are street and the street are street are street are street as a street are street are street as a street are street as a street are street as a street are street are street as a street are street as a street are street are street as a street are street are street are street as a street are st

Charles Russell, the Home Ruler's Eloquent Defender.

The speech recently delivered by Sir Charles Russell in London before the special commission sitting in the Times-Parnell in-quiry, was historic in its eloquence, ranking quiry, was historic in its eloquence, ranking with the greatest orations.

The man who delivered it, Sir Charles Russell, is an Irishman. He was born at Newry in the year 1833, and was educated to the learned profession of the law. In 1872 he had risen to the rank of Queen's Counsel. He was elected a member of the House of Commons in 1880, and was made Attorney General in 1886. With the next advent of the Liberals to power there is advent of the Liberals to power there is more than the possibility that Sir Charles Russell will become Lord Chancellor, and as such a member of the Cabinet.

"I can almost literally say that I was rescued from the grave," said Mrs. Carrie Schmitz to the reporter who had called at her home, 37 East South street, Indianapolis, to hear her relate the facts of her remarkable cure. "About two years ago," she stated, "I was a woman in the best of health and weighed 180 pounds. At that time I was taken weighed 180 pounds. At that time I was taken sick, and for over six months continued to get worse and worse, till'I gave up all hope of liv-ing. 'My weight was reduced to ninety-eight pounds, and it seemed only a matter of a short time till my end would come. I was treated by the best physicians in the city, also one of the leading physicians of St. Louis, who located my trouble in the lungs, but afforded me no relief. As a last resort I was induced to call on Dr. J. S. Jordan, No. 111/4 W. Washington street, Indianapolis, Ind., though I felt confident that he could do nothing for me, as I was so low. Nevertheless, I began to improve immediately under his treatment, and in a short time I felt that I had been born again. I now weigh 158 pounds, and do not look much like an invalid, as you may see. One feature of my illness was the severe and frequent hemorrhages from which I suffered, I having had the incredible number of twenthe best physicians in the country, and I would be only too glad to recommend him to any one suffering from lung trouble or any other disease."

THE MARKET NEWS,

The New York Stock Market.

The New York Stock Market.

[Special to The Indianapolis News.]

New York, May 2, 11 a. m.—The opening of the stock market this morning after the three days' holiday was only moderate in volume of business, but firm to strong in tone, most stocks showing advances over Saturday's closing figures of from ½ to ½ per cent. Atchison, however, responded to the rise in Boston yesterday with a gain of ¾. The interest in the speculation was centered in the western stocks, and Atchison and Northwestern were most prominent, with Burlington, Rock Island, Reading, Oregon, Transcontinental and Louisville & Nashville following. The opening advances were generally increased on the early trading, although the movements were somewhat irregular. Pullman was again decidedly strong and rose 1½, but the others were content with fractional gains, Rock Island, Wheeling & Lake Erie, Northwestern and Transcontinental being most prominent. Union Pacific, Chicago, Gas and Reading were the weak points in the list, and later in the hour there was a general recession from the best figures, the market at 11 o'clock being quiet but heavy, though still a fractions better than opening figures.

Son, of the Board of Police Commissioners, appeared at roll-call and read from manuscript a few instructions. After giving a short history of the Metropolitan Police law, Mr. Henderson said:

"It is no stretch of imagination to say that all law-abiding citizens of Indianapolis are wedded to the police law and want to see it continued in force. It is the provisions of this law that we are sworn to support. The law intends to make this force entirely non-partisan. You are the protectors of the people of this city without reference to party, race or color. You are the protectors of the people of this city without reference to party, race or color. You are the protectors of the people of this city without reference to party, race or color. You are each given the position you hold to do equal and exact justice to all men of whatever state, persuasion, religion or political belief. By this law you are prohibited from interfering that takes things easy. It is personifted by the Oriental Room which we provide for our friends. Here they can "take things easy" after having selected their purchases, meet their friends, exchange ideas, get suggestions from the thange ideas, get suggestions from the many pointers which the Room affords. Everybody welcome.

A SPEEDY PITCHER Hutchinson Too Swift for Indianapolis -League and Association Games.

The speediest pitcher facing a batter at the Ball Park this season proved to be Hutchinson, of Chicago, in the game yesterday afternoon, and the home nine could do comparatively nothing with the stick. The first to make noting with the stick. The first to make safe hit off his delivery was Schoenick, in the fifth inning, but it amounted to nothing. The Chicagos earned a run in the second inning on Pfeffer's three-bagger to center and Burns's sacrifice. A base on balls, Buckley's low throw to second, and hits by Duffy and Anson scored two in the third, and two-baggers by Anson to second, and hits by Duffy and Anson scored two in the third, and two-baggers by Anson and Burns, aided by Tener's single, contributed the final runs in the sixth. The Indianapolis team would have been blanked, but in this inning Hutchinson sent four men to bases; three by wild pitching, while Myers was hit by a ball, and two tallies resulted, one being aided by Denny's single. Boyle filled the box for the local team until after close of this inning, and then gave way to Burdick. the box for the local team until after close of this inning, and then gave way to Burdick, who is pitching this afternoon. With competent support, the first named should have won the game. The exasperating scene was again witnessed in these innings, of a hit to center yielding three bases for the Chicagos. It was not only an "off-day" for the Hoosier butters, but Mr. Barnum, the umpire, usually so effective, displayed bad judgment several times, and he also fell into the habit of apologizing, as it were, for many of his rulings on balls and strikes, by calling out "too low," or "too wide," as the case might be, instead of giving his decision abruptly and to the point. There was indication of a "scene" when Glasscock reached first, in one of the innings, Auson taking offense and shoving him in the breast, acting as if he was disposed to strike out from the shoulder. This exhibition was suppressed by the umpire none too soon. The score shows:

Barnum leaves to-night for Cleveland, and there will be a new umpire in the Pittsburg-Indianapolis series. After the Pittsburg games the Indianapolis nine will start on its Eastern trip, and there will be no more professional ball playing in this city until the first week in June. June.

The Indianapolis managers have concluded to retain Burdick, and announcement is also made that by reason of Shoenick's great first base play, no change in the infield is contemplated.

MR. HENDERSON READS THE LAW He Tells the Police What They Are

For-They Seem Pleased. Numerous orders issued by Superintendent Travis to the police force have been given for naught, or else there was a string attached to them, for the force has not carried out the in-instructions. Last night Mr. William Hender-son, of the Board of Police Commissioners, appeared at roll-call and read from manu-saying should not be considered a command, as all orders should come through the Superintendent, but he was voicing the opinion of the Board of Commissioners and the Superintendent when he gave his ideas as to the enforcement of the laws. He then pointed out what he considered to be the duty of the police force in the following words:

forcement of the laws. He then pointed out what he considered to be the duty of the police force in the following words:

"It is your duty not only to see that all saloons are closed and kept closed, so as to shut off all ingress during the days and hours the law says they shall be closed, but all other trades and occupations, be they tailors, shoemakers, barbers, or others. All persons must be treated ailke. If you fail in this, you are not doing 'equal and afact justice to all.' It is an admitted fact that the most determined and persistent law-breakers you have to deal with in keeping places of business closed on Sundays are saloon-keepers. Many of them are good, law-abiding men, who would like to spend their Saboaths as other good citizens do, but there are some of them who are law-defying and law-breaking, and I would recommend you to teach that class that they have to shut up on Sundays and other days when they are required to close business, or take the consequences. Teach them that they must shut up or break up.

required to close business, or take the consequences. Teach them that they must shut up or break up.

"There are classes of people following vocations that are evil in themselves, and you should use your utmost endeavor to suppress and wipe them out of existence. I refer to houses of prostitution. They are a general curse to society, and the destroyers of many of our young men, and there can be no excuse or paliation for their existence. You should make it your especial duty to exterminate them as fast as time will permit. But another class of houses also merits your special vigilance. They are the gambling dens. I consider it your imperative duty to hunt them up and wipe them out of existence. By enforcing the law in the way I have indicated, I am not afraid of any such calamity befalling the city as the grass and dog-fennel growing in the streets."

Mr. Henderson's remarks were applauded by

Mr. Henderson's remarks were applauded by the men when he had finished. No additional orders were issued by the Superintendent. He simply stated that he wanted the men to do their whole duty fearlessly. This morning at roll call Mr. Henderson's remarks were repeated to the day detail and the Superintendent reiterated his desire regarding the enforcement of the laws.

There is some objection to the provision of the law requiring the publisher to ship the books into each county and wait for his pay until they are sold by the school trustees, in the meantime taking the risk of loss by fire or damage from other causes. Still, they seem willing to enter the competition for the contract. Circulars are now being sent direct to all of the 800 school-book publishers in the United States in order that all may be informed of the chance for them to submit their proposals if they care to do so. als if they care to do so.

CANDIDATES FOR MAYOR

The Republicans Not Hopeful-Sullivan and Schmuck Talked Of.

many Republicans, including There are many Republicans, including some of the disappointed office-seekers, who have little expectation of carrying the city at the next election unless a change of feeling should take place. The "kickers" include so many of the "workers" that unless new "hands" come to the front there will be a deficiency in some wards. However, it is conceded that much depends upon the quality of the ticket to be nominated. As yet very few persons who are not essentially office-seekers are in the field. are in the field.

persons who are not essentially office-seekers are in the field.

For Mayor the only avowed Republican candidate is General Foster. Ed Dean has been "mentioned," but he says he isn't seeking the nomination, and even some of his friends are not confident of his election if nominated. Ex-Mayor McMaster is spoken of, but if he is nominated it will be in the face of the opposition of the corporations.

On the Democratic side ex-Judge Sullivan is being quietly but ardently boomed. He is himself averse to politics, but an element in the Democratic party has learned that the community does not hanker after a politician in the Mayor's office and they are insisting therefore that some one who has standing outside of the primaries be nominated. Gabriel Schmuck also is being considered. A Democrat of prominence to-day said: "Mr. Schmuck would doubtless 'draw' better among the liberal element than Mr. Sullivan, but the latter would have the advantage in other circles. We could win with either."

Ex-United States Marshal Ed. Hawkins has been suggested. He says: "I have no doubt that on a fair vote and with a good business man at the head of the ticket the Indianapolis Democracy would win. However, I am in no sense a candidate, and could not accept a nomination."

BAD CONDITION OF AFFAIRS.

Public Duties Subservient to Private Grievances in Fire Department.

Among the changes which Chief Dougherty made for betterment of the Fre Depactment was detailing "Jack" Robinson, a trained and valuable fireman, as foreman of the No. "3's." Mr. Robinson was a Webster man in the re cent trouble, but he is noted for his fidelity to duty. His selection displeased the Trusler syndicate, and for two weeks and more there has been constant friction in the effort to displace him and substitute R. H. Brown, a Trusler man. The Mayor advised Robinson to retire, "promising to stand by him," and he talked as if fearful of antagonizing the Trusler syndicate in any way. Robinson objected to being displaced at the dictation of the syndicate, but eventually he placed himself in Dougherty's hands, and the latter has compromised by making him driver of the "3's," ret; sending Frank Harvey to the "3's," as Captain, and transferring Brown to the "3's," vice Huffman to the "10's," vice Mountain to the "4's," vice John Keating to headquarters to fill the vacancy caused by Harvey's removal. The changes makes the "3's," one of the best companies in the city, and the only company really suffering is the "3's," in the loss of Rafert, who was the liveliest man on Prospect street. The changes duty. His selection displeased the Trusle is the "13's," in the loss of Rafert, who was the liveliest man on Prospect street. The changes are principally important in showing how the Trusler syndicate is carrying its private grievances into the city departments, to the consequent demoralization of every employe who fails to sympathize with them in every respect. Meanwhile the "freeze-out" of Robinson has embittered his friends, some of whom evince a disposition to "get even" at the first opportunity.
